In the article, “Three Daily Rituals that Stop Spouses from Taking Each Other for Granted,” the author, Peter McFadden, maintains that the following three daily practices contribute to a growing connection between husband and wife: 1) a habit of reunion, 2) two minutes of undistracted communication, 3) an appreciation ritual. The brief but valuable article can be found at: bit.ly/taking-for-granted.