Living with Ambiguity

“Now faith is the assurance of things hoped for, the conviction of things not seen” (Heb. 11:1).

We live with ambiguity every day of our lives, not knowing what might happen minute to minute, let alone day to day and so on. Nevertheless, we like to feel secure and to order our lives in such a way that we have stability. Particularly during these last several months and anticipating the months ahead, uncertainty and ambiguity have been and will be part of the daily fabric of our lives. Discuss with your spouse: How does faith impact your marriage, particularly in this time of ambiguity and uncertainty?
